THE MEN BEHIND THE JETS

When the American Football League had its first organizational meeting at Chicago on August 28, 1959, New York became a charter member.

After three seasons at the old Polo Grounds, the franchise took on a new and exciting look when a group headed by energetic Sonny Werblin purchased the bankrupt club and gave the organization a complete overhauling.

Building up to the start of the 1963 season, the owners brought in veteran pro coach Weeb Ewbank in the dual role of head coach and general manager. Through Werblin's leadership and Ewbank's guidance, the club has signed the leading collegiate players for the past three years.

In fact, the Jets' No. 1 draft choices in the last two seasons, Joe Namath (1965) and Matt Snell (1964), were runaway choices for "Rookie of the Year" honors. Leading signees for the 1966 season include Bill Yearby of Michigan and Carl McAdams of Oklahoma, both two-time all-America selections. Werblin and his associates haven't spared a cent in keeping their promise to "bring the best available collegiate talent to New York City."

The owners have struck out boldly to create a fresh and exciting image for the Jets. For the past two seasons the Jets have been the No. 1 draw in the AFL and last year ranked among the top six teams in all of pro football.

DAVID A. "SONNY" WERBLIN, President and Chief Executive Officer, is the dynamic head of the Jets organization. The former president of MCA-TV, Werblin is an avid sportsman who also serves as Secretary of the Monmouth Park Jockey Club. An established personality in the field of thoroughbred racing, Werblin is the owner of a stable of race horses. He has long been a pro football fan. The Brooklyn-born Werblin rose from office boy to become President of MCA-TV, a post he held until his retirement in 1965.

DONALD C. LILLIS, Chairman of the Board, has a seemingly limitless reservoir of energy and serves as a director of nine corporations. A limited partner of Bear, Stearns & Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange, Lillis is also president of Bowie Race Course in Maryland.

TOWNSEND B. MARTIN, Vice President, is an internationally-known owner and breeder of thoroughbred race horses and is also actively engaged in the banking business in New York. An original backer of the Monmouth Park Jockey Club in 1946, Martin now has stables in Ireland as well as the United States. He has great interest in hunting and fishing in addition to horse racing and pro football.

PHILIP H. ISELIN, Treasurer, is the president of the Korell Company and has an extensive background in thoroughbred racing. The dapper Iselin is President and Chairman of the Board of the Monmouth Park Jockey Club. Ranking as one of the most popular and respected members of the racing fraternity, Iselin lives in Oceanport, N. J., the site of Monmouth Park.

LEON HESS, Secretary, is the youngest of the Jet owners. A native of Asbury Park, N. J., Hess entered the oil business at an early age. He is now a director, president and chief executive officer of the Hess Oil & Chemical Corporation of Perth Amboy, N. J. He also serves as a director of the Monmouth Park Jockey Club.

WEEB EWBANK

Head Coach and General Manager

Weeb Ewbank's middle name isn't "success" but it might as well be. A man who thrives on challenges, Ewbank has produced success everywhere he has lingered along the football coaching trail.

He began his career as an assistant at his alma mater, Miami University (Ohio), and spent 14 seasons there. In 1943, he joined Paul Brown at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station as an assistant. At the end of the war, Weeb became backfield coach at Brown University. After one season there, he moved on to Washington University in St. Louis, taking over as head coach.

Weeb had to begin from scratch at Washington as the school was just resuming its football program. In his first season, Weeb guided the Maroons to a record of 5-4. The next season Washington posted its finest record in 30 years as it lost only once in 10 starts.

In 1949, Ewbank rejoined Paul Brown and the Cleveland Browns. During the next four years, the Browns dominated pro football. They won the All-America Conference title, then took the National Football League championship in 1950, and added Eastern Division pennants in 1951-52-53.

Ewbank publicly exhibited his brilliant managerial talents when he moved to Baltimore in 1954. He took a team that was beset with disorganization, and within six years produced two NFL championships.

When the present Jets management took over the New York AFL operation they moved swiftly to acquire Ewbank as Head Coach and General Manager. He in turn has moved ahead swiftly to build a championship calibre club and has developed two AFL "Rookies of the Year"—Joe Namath, 1965, and Matt Snell, 1964. If history is any indicator, the Jets will have the championship flag flying from Shea Stadium in the near future.

JOE NAMATH QB 23 6-2 191 Alabama 2

When the 1965 American Football League season opened, Joe Namath was sitting on the bench as the Jets lost to the Houston Oilers at Rice Stadium.

When the AFL All-Stars met the champion Buffalo Bills in that same Rice Stadium, Joe Namath was doing the quarterbacking and leading the All-Stars to victory and earning the MVP award of the game.

During that five month period from September to January, Namath had his ups and downs as he adjusted to the rigors of pro football. He had taken over the regular quarterback job in the third game, relinquished it during the fifth and won it back for good in the eighth game. He worked hard and long. Looked at films day and night to recognize defenses. Concentrated on timing with his receivers and kept his mind on football despite outside pressures.

When Namath found himself at home at the quarterback spot, the Jets found themselves winning four games in a row and five of their last eight.

The former Alabama star came on with a rush and finished third in the AFL passing statistics and won all the awards for "Rookie of the Year" in a runaway fashion.

Namath was the first freshman quarterback to be so honored since Bob Waterfield and Otto Graham made their debuts in the '40s.

Playing in 13 games (an actual breakdown shows Namath played 41 quarters—eight complete games and parts of five others) he completed 164 of 340 passes for 2220 yards. He was intercepted only 15 times, second best in the league, and threw 18 touchdown passes.

Joe finished the season with a hot hand completing at least one touchdown pass in the Jets' last eight games.

There were many high points of the season for Namath. The first was his initial pro start against the Buffalo Bills. The Beaver Falls, Pa. product battled all-league quarterback Jackie Kemp all the way completing 19 of 40 passes for 287 yards and two touchdowns. Kemp passed for 292 yards to lead the Bills to a 33-21 victory.

After a poor game against Oakland, Namath bounced back and put together a solid string of successes that helped lead the Jets on a four-game winning streak. He came off the bench against Kansas City in the second half and got the Jets a come from behind 13-10 victory. It marked the first Jet win on the road in 13 games.

The following week at Boston, Namath displayed great poise against the Patriots' famed blitz. He passed for two touchdowns and showed he had arrived as a pro quarterback by leading the Jets on an eight minute drive for a wrap-up field goal.

Namath turned in his best performance of the season the next Sunday when he threw four touchdown passes and completed 17 of 26 attempts to lead the Jets to a 41-14 rout of the Houston Oilers, the team he had watched beat the Jets while he sat on the bench in the opener.

In the season's finale he passed for two touchdowns and led the Jets to a second place finish and a 14-12 victory over the champion Bills.

All told the 1965 season must be called a tremendous success for Joe Willie Namath.

Jets on Radio and TV

All of the Jets' 1966 regular season away games will again be televised in color in New York by WNBC-TV, Channel 4. No home games will be televised in New York.

Jet fans will also have an opportunity to follow the Jets during the pre-season schedule as four of the five games will be televised "live" back to New York over WOR-TV, Channel 9.

The lone exception will be the Aug. 27 game with Buffalo at Allentown, Pa. That game will be shown on tape the following day, Aug. 28.

WABC-Radio, 770, will again carry all of the Jets games, including the pre-season contests. Merle Harmon returns for the third year to do the play-by-play. Dick Young, sports columnist for the New York Daily News, will handle the color.

SHEA STADIUM

Home of the Jets

Located in the geographical and population center of New York City at Flushing Meadows, Queens, William A. Shea Stadium is the home of the New York Jets.

Easily reached by car, bus, I.R.T. subway, taxi, Long Island Railroad, plane and boat, Shea Stadium has 45 acres of parking field—one of the most spacious parking accommodations in the nation.

Vehicular traffic utilizes a new $111 million complex of widened parkways. The I.R.T. Flushing line runs directly to the Willets Point station where a convenient overpass leads into Stadium entrances. The Long Island Railroad station is within easy walking distance as is the enlarged Flushing Bay Marina. Both Kennedy International and LaGuardia airports are just minutes away by taxi.

There are 60,000 seats for Jet football games—all totally unobstructed by columns or posts. Every seat has a clear view of the playing field. An ingenious system of seat rotation permits 10,000 seats to be moved electrically to positions which parallel the side lines of the football field. Over 19,000 seats are located on ground level and slope upwards for unexcelled viewing. Some 14,000 seats are on the second tier while 20,000 more are located in the third tier. There are over 20,000 box seats and an additional 5,000 temporary seats.

All seat levels can be easily reached by escalators and elevators. Upper level seats are reached by 21 runs of escalators in seven banks as well as two elevators. Escalators have a carrying capacity of 56,000 persons per hour. Seats may also be reached by 24 wide and gradually-sloped ramps.

Shea Stadium has one of the nation's most modern lighting systems with lights running in continuous strips around the cantilevered roof, eliminating all towers except for two banks beyond the end zone.

There are 54 public rest room installations located on all three levels. Each of the 27 women's rooms has its own lounge or powder room.

Evenly-spaced concession stands for light snacks and soft drinks are grouped around aisles at each level to make vertical travel unnecessary. For leisurely dining, there is an attractive main dining room.

In 1964 and again in 1965, the Jets established AFL attendance records at Shea Stadium. An average crowd of 54,877 watched the Jets in action last year. This topped the previous AFL high of 42,710 set by the Jets in 1964. The Jets also hold the record for the largest crowd to ever witness an AFL game—61,929—which watched the Jets host the Buffalo Bills on Nov. 1, 1964. That same crowd figure of 61,929 is the largest to ever attend an event at Shea Stadium. More attendance records are certain to fall at Shea Stadium during the 1966 season.
